Lower Merion-Radnor Set for Annual Fray

Traditional Rivals Meet This Saturday on Pennypacker Field.

WAYNE TEAM HEAVIER

The stage is set for the annual football classic of the Main Line, the thirty-second Lower Merion-Radnor game, which will be played at Pennypacker Field, Ardmore, this Saturday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

Not since 1926 has the Red and White team from Wayne defeated the Maroon of Lower Merion, but the dope is often upset in this traditional contest and one man's guess is as good as another's. Last year's thrilling encounter at the Villanova stadium, when a strong Lower Merion eleven went into the contest a heavy favorite but could only gain a 12-12 tie with a fighting Radnor team, will not soon be forgotten.

After a brilliant start Radnor dropped its last two contests, while Lower Merion, nettled by a one-point loss to Episcopal Academy in the season's opener, has bowled over seven opponents in a row. But, as has been demonstrated time and again, past records go for naught when these teams come to grips.

Coach Albert Adam made the following statement in a Gil Dobie vein: "It will be a typical Radnor-Lower Merion game. Each team has played terrible football in its last two encounters, and it is hard to tell which team is the worst."

There is no doubt about the fact that with a line and backfield that outweigh Lower Merion six pounds to a man, the Radnor outfit will be hard to stop. Coach Prevost always has a couple of tricks up his sleeve and the Radnor backfield is good, heavy and fast. They have good headwork all along the line, and with Kavanaugh calling the signals they have a boy who is smart in a pinch.

Tomorrow tells the tale.

First-Period Honors Announced by School

3D. GRADE GET "FIRSTS"

Honors were announced this week by Principal W. James Drennan for the first period at the Narberth Public School. No first honors were won in the eighth, seventh, sixth, fifth or fourth grades, according to the announcement.

"First" honors, Mr. Drennan explained, require pupils to obtain four "E" grades, two of which must be in English, history, geography or arithmetic, and nothing below "G." This requirement applies to the 6th, 7th and 8th grades. In the fourth and fifth grades, at least three "E's" are required in English, history, geography, arithmetic or spelling and nothing less than "G."

In the third grade, the only one to win "first" honors, three "E's" and nothing below "G" are required. The pupils of the third grade who won first honors are as follows: Marjory Have-

Narberth Players Score Big Success

Mystery Play 'Bilked' Given
Splendid Performance Last Friday.

The big night has come and gone. A Narberth debutante has made her bow before an admiring public, and is prepared to spend the ensuing years remembering the great event, cherishing her first success, however great the conquests to come. We are speaking of the premiere of the Narberth Players, the new dramatic group which almost overnight has become a very popular addition to the town's life. On Friday evening, November 13, the club members made their initial appearance in a four-act drama of thrills and mystery, and, according to the large attendance, the event was of great importance.

The play, "Bilked," was written by Ronald G. E. Ullman, member of the Swarthmore Players' Club, through whose courtesy the Narberth group were able to produce it. It is the

Wise Use of Leisure Aim of Education, Says Media Principal at P. T. A. Meeting

"The objective of modern education is the training for the wise use of leisure as well as to prepare one to make a living," according to William H. Michaels, principal of the Media schools, who was the speaker at the November meeting of the Narberth Parent-Teachers' Association. Mr. Michaels very ably pointed out the tremendous economic changes in modern times, resulting in shorter hours of labor and longer hours of leisure for all classes. Unless education prepares pupils to so use this leisure time constructively and wisely it will have failed in one of its two main purposes. To direct this leisure into the pursuit of beauty, the arts, science, literature and music is perhaps the highest aim of our present-day educators.

Thanksgiving Matinee at Narberth Theatre to Aid Local Relief Work

Entire Proceeds of Performance to Be Contributed by to Be Expended in Borough.

FORTY-FIVE FAMILIES HERE ARE IN NEED

If Messrs. Salasin & Freed, proprietors of the Narberth Theatre, should announce that they were giving an absolutely free matinee on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day, with Edmund Lowe and El Brendel in their new talkie film, "The Spider," as the principal feature, and, in addition, all of the other attractions which always make up the well-rounded programs of that house of merriment and entertainment, would the turkey dinners of Narberth and the surrounding community be scheduled so as not to interfere with that event? Would that be a little extra cause for thanksgiving in a hard year? This is almost exactly what is now offered.

Salasin & Freed will contribute the entire proceeds of the Thanksgiving Day matinee, without any drawbacks whatsoever for lights, overhead, pay of attendants or wear and tear, to the United Campaign, with the proviso that all of this money, while going to swell the total of the big drive, shall actually be turned over to the Main Line Federation of Churches, who are in charge of the Main Line section of the United Campaign. And the Federation of Churches has agreed that all of the money derived from this matinee shall be expended for unemployment relief work inside the Borough of Narberth, and nowhere else.

But is it necessary to confine that sum of money to relief work in Narberth? Are there people in that community who are actually in need of relief for the real necessities of life? The ordinary man or woman, going about his usual affairs, sees no such cases, hears of no one who is suffering from cold or hunger or inadequate clothing. It is stated on the highest authority that there are at least forty-five Narberth families today who are in serious need of fuel, and possibly some of them will need food assistance soon. Among them are three families with small children to whom a daily ration of milk is being supplied, and another family where an expectant mother is in need of necessities that her faithful but unemployed husband is unable to supply. These families are not the cold statistical tabulation of social analysts. They are close neighbors of everyone in the small com-

The Instrumental Trio, composed of Dorothy Johnstone Baseler, harp; Josephine Gemberling Cochran, violin, and Ethel Dorr McKinley, 'cello, gave an outstanding musical program at the Woman's Community Club of Narberth in the Girl Scout wing of the Community Building on Tuesday afternoon.

The program was opened by the trio playing "Serenade," by Faure. The piece was finely performed, with admirable tempi and excellent tone.

The next number was a 'cello solo by Ethel Dorr McKinley, who played "Rondo," by Boucherini, and "Bercuse Slav," by Albynski.

The next number was a harp solo by Dorothy Johnstone Baseler, who enchanted the audience with her playing of "Romance," by Saint-Saens.

State D. A. R. Convention Described by Mrs. Stuard

The Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter of N. S. D. A. R. held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Addie K. Hewitt on Essex Avenue on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles M. Stuard, regent of the Merion Chapter of N. S. D. A. R., gave an interesting account of the social events and meetings of the Pennsylvania State Convention of D. A. R. held in Pittsburgh last week. She spoke of Mrs. N. Howland Brown's speech about Fort Necessity at the convention. Mrs. Brown put in a plea for the financing of a foot bridge to the monument at Fort Necessity which is in the centre of rather boggy ground and is at the present unapproachable. Resolutions were passed for the raising of funds to finance the construction of the bridges. The Pennsylvania State D. A. R. will finance one bridge, while the Daughters of 1812 will finance the second.

Another interesting fact brought out at the convention by Mrs. Joseph M. Caley, past regent, was that the first State convention in Pittsburgh of the D. A. R. was held on the first Armistice Day at the same place as it was on this last Armistice Day.

Mrs. F. T. Van Auken read excerpts from papers by Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and George Wharton Pepper, apropos to the present situation of the League of Nations in the Japanese-Chinese dispute.

Mrs. Hugh Glenn Martin, regent of the chapter, presided. A committee was appointed by Mrs. Martin to take charge of the coming George Washington Bi-Centennial celebration in February. Mrs. E. C. Town is the chairman, and the other members of the committee are Mrs. C. Arley Farmer, Mrs. John Nash and Mrs. Walter O. Sullivan.

Tea was served. Mrs. R. A. Mizner was co-hostess.

Villanova-Detroit Tie

In a quagmire of mud the Villanova Wildcats and the University of Detroit Titans battled to a scoreless tie last Saturday at Detroit. The kicking of Johnny Brice, Villanova end, averaging 37 yards per punt with a soggy and slippery ball, featured the contest.

Five touchdowns for a total of 44 points were scored by Episcopal Academicians against the Montgomery School eleven at Wynnewood last Friday. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Lose in New York

Long passes enabled C. C. N. Y. to defeat Haverford College at New York last Saturday. Although outgained 294 yards to 28 a strong defense by the Main Line eleven kept the score-down. Brilliant punting by Haverford kept the ball away from their goal line.

Junior Club Active in Welfare Work

Garments Collected for Needlework Guild; to Distribute Baskets.

CARD PARTY DEC. 9TH

The recent meeting of the Junior Community Club was held on Thursday, November 12, at the home of the senior advisor, Mrs. B. F. Keenan, on Avon Road, with the president, Mrs. Ellsworth B. Clark, presiding.

Reports from the various committee chairmen disclosed the fact that the club has been very active in social and welfare work. For the first time the members contributed as a group to the Needlework Guild and the sixty-seven garments gathered under the direction of Miss Margaret Burrell were a tribute to the enthusiasm of the girls for this sort of work.

Through the welfare chairman, Mrs. Clifford D. Goodwin, several Thanksgiving baskets are to be distributed to needy Narberth families in the hopes of brightening the holiday season for them.

Miss Alberta Davis, chairman of the finance committee, reported the movie benefit, held earlier in the month, a great success. Miss Davis urged contributions of old clothes, household articles and "white elephants" for the rummage sale which is to be held on Saturday, November 21, at a store at 3515 Market Street, West Philadelphia, and asked the assistance of everyone to make the sale successful. Any outsider who has articles appropriate for a rummage to give away and cares to call Miss Davis at Narberth 2723-J will be gratefully received and their bundles called for Friday evening or Saturday morning.

On December 9 a card party will be given in the community building, Girl Scout wing, at 50 cents a ticket. Funds from this will be used for Christmas charities and both men and women are welcome. Usually a Junior Community Club "mixed" card party is a highly entertaining and delightful affair—and undoubtedly this will prove no exception.

The next meeting of the club will be a social evening—a Thanksgiving card party at the home of the senior advisor, Mrs. B. F. Keenan. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served and all members are looking forward to a very pleasant evening.

The speaker last Thursday was Professor James A. Shokat, who spoke on "International Relations and Peace Movements." He told about the "universal City" which has been established in France where many countries have founded houses on one big campus, where all nationalities live in an atmosphere of co-operation and friendliness that does much to stimulate a desire for permanent peace and co-operation among those born in different lands. Mr. Shokat was kept busy for a whole hour at the end of his talk, answering the eager questioning of the members who were greatly intrigued and pleased with his subject.

Mrs. C. Arley Farmer made a short plea in behalf of the welfare work in Narberth and told of the dire need of families in certain sections of the borough, where help must be supplied.

Four new members have been taken into the club: Mrs. Ed Corrigan, Mrs. Frank Leins, Mrs. Robert Tabor and Mrs. Ellis Pedrick.

The Spectator:

You speak in the town paper of poor and starving people (which I suppose you mean exist in Narberth). Will you be kind enough to send me the names and addresses.

Thank you!

Few events of the year are more typically Main Line in their character than the annual Lower Merion-Radnor game. This year, with the contest played on the Ardmore grounds, it is of even more local interest.

This yearly outcropping of school rivalry is a healthy sign of the basic normality of things, no matter what the phases of business may show. Not only the school pupils are all het up—the game tomorrow is the prime topic of people in all walks of life, overshadowing for the moment both the omnipresent Depression and the most recent crime news.

Championship Football Scheduled for Narberth on Thanksgiving Day

Scoring 60 points to opponents' 13, the Narway Club of Narberth will wind up its football season with two exciting games. This Saturday it will play St. Joseph's College Freshmen at the college stadium on City Line, and at 2 P. M. Thanksgiving Day a championship fray will be waged with the Woodbine Tigers, of Narberth, on the Borough's community field. Goal posts are being placed by the Borough authorities, and the Main Line's best baseball field will be turned into a gridiron.

The Narway team ranges in age from fifteen to nineteen years; the Tigers from eighteen to twenty-four. It is hoped to make the game an annual one. Officials are Art Cooke, referee; Bill Durbin, umpire, and Mat Callahan, head linesman.

Narway as a baseball nine won fifteen games and lost one the past season in competition with Main Line and Philadelphia teams. Its football eleven has played Overbrook, Bryn Mawr, Ardmore and the Woodbine Tigers, to whom it lost two weeks ago, 13-0, with an incomplete team in the field. It has been agreed that the coming contest will be considered a championship one. General manager of the Narways is Joseph O'Keefe, and Bill Kane is quarterback. At the head of the Woodbine Tigers is George Humphries.

The Narway team presents such experienced players as C. Chain, George "Truck" Carr and Bill Kane, of West Catholic High, and Al Lambert, former L. M. and all-intersuburban star. Its strength is in its defense, which has risen to great power in stopping numerous attacks.

To encourage interest in football here all Main Line sports lovers are invited to attend the game on Thanksgiving Day. The lineup follows:

Lions Defeat Camels in Two Out of Three Games

The Lions were a little too tough for the Camels in last Friday's matches in the Inter-Church Bowling League. The Lions won two out of three games and also the total pins. The Camels won the third, giving them one point for their evening's work to the Lions' three.

New Fiction Available Without Rental Charge

It has been the purpose of the library to call attention to fifty books of fiction published since last October which had previously been in the rental collection and only recently removed from it to be placed on the free shelves. Before the notice could be written, however, all but twelve of the books, with the rental labels absent, had gone into circulation and by the time the notice is printed the shelves containing the collection will undoubtedly be empty. It will be possible, however, to find the books on the regular shelves under the name of the author and this seems like a good opportunity to call attention to them, for among them are some very interesting novels that readers may have overlooked.

A number of detective stories, of course, by such popular authors as Agatha Christie, Anthony Berkeley and Edgar Wallace; several entertaining romances as "Festival," by Struthers Burt; "Phillippa," by Anne Douglass Sedgewick; "Over the Hills," by Jeffery Farnol; "Fool of the Family," by Margaret Kennedy; and "Mackerel Sky," by Helen Ashton. Also there is "Everlasting Struggle," by Johann Bojer, Norway's great novelist; "Staying with Relations," a witty and brilliant character study by Rose Macaulay; "On Forsythe Change," by Galsworthy, needing no explanation; and "The Longer Day," by the anonymous author of "Miss Tiverton."

These and many more of the new books not yet a year off the press may be read without charge at the Narberth Library.

The Methodist Bazaar

There's a beautiful church on the hill top.

It has been there more than a year. And to us who go there to worship It has become very dear.

The church, so fine in equipment, Was built for worship, and fun, And all our dear friends in Narberth We can entertain when they come.

Just now we are planning to hold a Bazaar,

On the fifth of December, we hear. We are working to pay off the mortgage.

And reduce it a little each year.

The aprons they say are so lovely. For Christmas gifts they will do. You may buy one for sister or mother, And one for your sweetheart, too.

And every dollar you spend for gifts Will help the good cause along. There'll be music and entertainment And many a soul-stirring song.

We're depending on you to help us, We need it so much, we confess; We could not foresee that depression Would add to financial distress.

On the tables there'll be red candles; They will look so cheery and bright. We hear we are better looking When seen by their mellow light.

The tables will look so lovely; A fine display they will make. You'll think you have stepped in Kugler's, Or the Bellevue, by mistake.

In the Methodist Church on the hilltop, December the fifth is the time. In Parish Hall we will welcome you all Who will come at five thirty to dine. —MARGARET L. GRIFFITH.

A man gives himself away who finds it necessary to boast of his honesty. Everything is old-fashioned to the modern youth except mother's cooking. A great economist is one who can tell you, after an event, just why it had to happen.

Three "Bests" Coming

Sax Rohmer's "Daughter of Fu Manchu" is playing at the Narberth Theatre this Friday and Saturday under the title of "Daughter of the Dragon." It is a melodrama in which blood flows freely, distinguished by the acting of an all-Oriental cast: Warner Oland, Anna May Wong and Sessue Hayakawa.

Three hits are coming to Narberth next week, all of them among the season's very best shows. Theodore Dreiser's rather morbid masterpiece, "An American Tragedy," with Von Sternberg's splendid direction, is coming Monday and Tuesday. Edmund Lowe and El Brendel will star Wednesday and Thursday in an exciting and interesting story, "The Spider." And next week-end's feature will be the Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene."

Football Films at Cynwyd

Gridiron novelties at the Egyptian in Cynwyd this season include "The Spirit of Notre Dame," coming soon, and these short subjects: "Kicking," this week-end; "Football Progress," Thanksgiving Day, and "Penalties of the Game," next week-end.

The wise man and the fool seem much alike when they fall in love or try to explain hard times.

Marxes at Egyptian

The Four Marx Brothers' latest comedy, "Monkey Business," is at the Egyptian in Cynwyd this Friday and Saturday. Their funniest offering; not to be missed by mirth-lovers.

Joan Crawford, Neil Hamilton, Monroe Owsley and Pauline Frederick appear in "This Modern Age" at the Egyptian next Monday and Tuesday. Crawford fans will like it. It's adapted from Mildred Cram's novel, "Girls Together."

Grace Perkins' novel, "Personal Maid," will star Nancy Carroll, Donald Meed, Pat O'Brien, George Fawcett and others, at the Cynwyd playhouse next Wednesday.

"The Big Gamble," showing at the Egyptian Thanksgiving Day matinee and evening, stars Bill Boyd, Warner Oland and Dorothy Sebastian. A good cast in an exciting drama.

Coming the end of next week is what has justly been termed the most exciting picture ever filmed. Wild-animal thrills, an erupting volcano, and Rose Hobart and Charles Bickford make this melodrama really interesting and worth seeing.

Your Thanksgiving Dinner... Will Taste Better With PURE SPRINGFIELD WATER On the Table

Sparkling goblets of Pure Springfield Water add zest to any Thanksgiving Dinner . . . a cool draught, before the meal, will sharpen your appetite for the Turkey and all the fixin's.

WE, MODERN FOLKS, must consider ourselves fortunate, indeed, if we will look back, for a moment, at the problems of our forefathers, founders of the Day of Thanks, three hundred and eleven years ago, who were forced to virtually hunt for their food and drink when they made ready for the festive board.

Their turkeys roamed in the woods . . . vegetables were scarce . . . bread and pies must be baked in the open hearths . . . and their drinking water must be carried from some distant spring or stream.

Between the suffering from plagues and disease . . . largely due from the use of questionable and impure water, and the hardships of the primitive life they led . . . it is truly remarkable that enough of the original band were able to fight on to head the present day American family of over one hundred million persons.

Today . . . your drinking water in Delaware, Chester and Montgomery Counties is PURE. . . you may rely upon the Safety of Springfield Water.

munity, and Mrs. H. B. Wimer. Three thousand three hundred and twenty-seven garments were collected by the Guild and $61.75.

Mrs. G. H. Henry, of Meeting House Lane, donated seven patchwork crib quilts and 188 garments were made by the women at the monthly sewing meetings, fifty-five of which were beautifully made dresses. The Junior Community Club gave one of the five and complete layettes, the Thimble Club of Narberth one layette and Mrs. W. H. Fox, four.

On the memorial table were a number of useful and attractive garments donated by Mrs. Robert Russell, in memory of her mother; Mrs. Miner, in memory of her father and mother; Mr. Elwood Sickles in memory of his wife, Miss Lurena Wallace in memory of her mother and by Mrs. J. A. Caldwell in memory of her late husband, Mr. J. A. Caldwell.

The Reverend Samuel MacAdams, pastor of the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted the devotional service.

Mr. J. H. Kreher, a newcomer to Narberth, was the next speaker on the program. He gave an interesting and brilliant talk on the Practical Adaptation of Leisure Time. "This so-called leisure," said Mr. Kreher, "is the most important thing to contend with today, especially among the young people. And in this age of speed, machinery and modern inventions most of us need a log of leisure." Mr. Kreher recommended that every child should be given a certain amount of chores to do every day. Mr. Kreher recommended that parents should never give work as punishment but as a matter of the welfare of the family.

Mrs. C. Arley Farmer was the second speaker. Her topic was the Narberth Child Health Centre and the work it is accomplishing with the babies and the needy families in their care. The aim of the centre is to keep well babies well and sessions are held each week in a room downstairs in Elm Hall which has been donated by the Narberth Bridge Club for the use of the Centre on Wednesday afternoons from two until three. All children of pre-school age are taken care of by the Centre. Dr. Mitchell, a pediatrician, who is connected with the Bryn Mawr Hospital and other hospitals, is in charge.

Mrs. Farmer thanked the Needlework Guild for their donation of garments to the Health Centre.

Announce Contest Results

At the performance of their play on Friday evening Russell Green, president of the new dramatic group in town which has been seeking to find a name by means of a name contest, announced that after deep thought and consideration they will retain their original name, "The Narberth Players," none of the contributions turned in having been deemed better fitting. However, honorable mention was made to the suggestions of two contestants and prizes of $2.50 gold piece made to each. They were for the suggestion "The Narberthesians" by C. C. DeHaven, of 11 Windsor Avenue, Narberth, and for the one, "The Buskineers," contributed by Rev. Robert Keighton, of Avon Road. The Players thank all contestants for their interest and congratulate the two honorably mentioned.

Speaks at Church Service

Frank A. Schrepfer, of Narberth, assistant professor of Landscape Architecture at the University of Pennsylvania, was the speaker on Wednesday evening at the Protestant Episcopal Chapel of the Prince of Peace, Twenty-second and Morris Streets, Philadelphia. His subject was "Peace on Earth and Good Will."

Thanksgiving Matinee to Aid Local Relief Work

munity of Narberth. Their need is not generally known because in most instances this is the first time they have ever been in need and they would starve rather than beg or panhandle from their neighbors. The men of the families are workers; they are keeping up their courage and self respect by continually seeking work. They are not muttering on street corners, blaming the Government, claiming a dole. They are looking for work. What more can any head of a family do?

But the work is not to be found. The economic machine has got out of gear all over the world. Were these forty-five Narberth family heads doing right when they contributed their purchasing power to the prosperity which so dismally failed in October, 1929? Did they pay their taxes during those prosperous years? Did they do jury duty? Did they keep the peace? Did these fathers feed, clothe and train their children so that they should be able to assume the obligations of citizenship in the years to come? Were they available for military duty if the nation demanded it? The answer to all of these questions is "Yes." Did those members of the Narberth community who are now more fortunate do more at any time? The answer to that question is "No." Are these forty-five or fifty families going to be permitted to shiver, and go hungry and sick and possibly die right here in Narberth this winter?

The answer to that last question is squarely up to the people of Narberth and the timely offer of Messrs. Salasin & Freed has given the Burgess, Henry A. Frye, the opportunity he has been seeking to bring this local situation graphically to the attention of his fellow-citizens and to appeal to their generosity in an organized way that will be within the reach of everyone and actually will be no additional burden; in fact, no contribution at all, for everyone who buys a ticket to the Thanksgiving matinee will pay only the regular price (thirty-five cents for adults and twenty cents for children) and will get his usual money's worth of motion picture holiday entertainment.

In order to put this opportunity to discharge a community duty on a strictly community basis, the Burgess has appointed the following committee to take charge of the sale of tickets for the matinee and to assume the sponsorship for it to their fellow-citizens: Mrs. W. G. Newman, who is in charge of the United Campaign work in Narberth; Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, Fred Waltzer, Esq., W. R. Griffiths, George H. Henry, Mrs. Walter B. Tait, Stuart B. Weiss, C. J. Clarke and Councilman Robert F. Wood. That committee will organize the sale of tickets covering the entire seating capacity of the theater, and the allotment of tickets which will be turned back by them, for sale at the theatre ticket office, will be just as much under the committee's jurisdiction, so far as the proceeds are concerned, as any that may be sold outside. Every cent derived from the sale of tickets for that matinee will go directly toward relief work in Narberth, without any deductions whatsoever.

Not a cent will have to be turned back for the use of the film itself, for the actors, the producers and the film distributors are all contributing their normal shares as their part of the national relief campaign which they are observing under the name of National Motion Picture Week. From this it will be seen that the arrangements for this opportunity for Narberth people to contribute to the relief of Narberth people began in Hollywood weeks ago, initiated and consummated 3000 miles away on the assumption that any American community would respond with generous enthusiasm to any such opportunity for self-help. It is now up to the people of Narberth to make good.

Custer, Esther Clark, Anne Casey, Jean Carmody, Mary Blanche, Shirley Vincent and Claude Waters. Special prizes were given to Marjorie Havlick, Shirley Vincent, Caroline Custer and John Schwabenland for superior work in map construction and note book reviews.

Robert Louis Stevenson's "Farewell to the Farm," "The Unseen Playmate" and "Travel," and a tribute to "Treasure Island" by Bert Leston Taylor were read by Mrs. H. I. McConnell in recognition of Mr. Stevenson's birthday anniversary, November 13. These readings were very ably given and much enjoyed.

The Mothers' Chorus sang three selections under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Drennen, which were also well rendered and greatly appreciated.

Mrs. W. G. Briner, a delegate to the Southeastern District Conference of the Pennsylvania P. T. A., held at Pottstown recently, gave a very interesting report of the work of the convention. The Children's Charter, compiled at the White House conference called by President Hoover, was one of the outstanding topics.

The Twickenham Book Shop, of Ardmore, had an interesting display of books for the child of pre-school and school age.

Elias Kline's room had the largest percentage of parents present at the meeting, which entitles his room to the attendance banner for the month. An invitation extended by W. J. Drennen, school principal, to see the new building was accepted by many of the parents. The seventh grade mothers were hostesses.

District Governor Visits Bala-Cynwyd Rotary Club

E. Paul Burkholder, of Georgetown, Del., governor of the fiftieth Rotary district, was the guest Tuesday of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club.

Mr. Burkholder met in the morning with the officers and directors of the local club and discussed problems affecting service clubs throughout the world. He also received reports on the work of the local group.

At the luncheon meeting Mr. Burkholder's speech dealt with the opportunities of Rotary for community and world service during times of trouble. He stated that the opportunity of the movement is greater this year than ever before.

Announcement was made of a change in the meeting place of the club—the first since the foundation of the local group. Beginning with the meeting of December 2, the club will hold its luncheons at the Overbrook Golf Club, on Lancaster Avenue above City Line, instead of at the Cynwyd Club.

Oyster Supper Tonight

His Majesty King Oyster, robed in all the richness of autumnal browns and attended by a most attractive suite, will hold court in Parish Hall of Narberth M. E. Church at 6:30 this Friday evening. This supper is gotten up at a most reasonable price, which includes dessert. It will represent thorough preparation and able management, which means a hot supper served promptly.

(On the quiet—Thoroughly baked ham will be served those who may not desire oysters.)

Car Stolen

A new Buick sedan was stolen from in front of the home of A. W. Needham, 103 Chestnut Avenue, Narberth, on Monday night. The car belonged to Elmer L. Miller, of Philadelphia, who was staying with the Needhams at the time. The robbery occurred shortly after 12 o'clock. It had not been recovered yesterday.

Musical Program at Woman's Club Pleases lowed with "Adagio, from Suite II," by Ries, and as a finale the trio played "Miniatures," by Bridge.

The trio were admirable in all their numbers and the themes and their developments of the various selections excellent. The artists received an ovation at the close of the concert by the large audience.

Mrs. W. J. Drennan, chairman of music, was in charge of the program.

Preceding the musical program there was a short business meeting, with Mrs. Joseph H. Hongler presiding.

An announcement was made that the committee on building had been disbanded owing to the stress of financial conditions, but will be resumed at some future date.

A gym class for members and other residents of the community is being formed. There will be a competent gym teacher in charge.

The class will be conducted for ten weeks in the Community Building, for which there will be a very small charge. Full details will be announced later. Mrs. Suzanne Joret Gill is in charge of the class.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Kenneth Bovee and Mrs. C. J. Goodyear were at the tea table. Assisting were Mrs. Robert Compton, Mrs. Joseph A. Hongler, Mrs. P. A. Wales and Mrs. E. Guy Steinfeld.

Donations of canned goods may be left at the meetings of the club for the welfare committee.

The membership committee of the club will give a tea for the new club members and new residents of Narberth at the home of Mrs. Edward Larney, Braeburn Road, Penn Valley, this afternoon from 3:30 until 5 o'clock.

The next meeting of the reading group will be held at the home of Mrs. Wesley Carlson, 110 Iona Avenue. Mrs. Lee Turner will review "Wild Orchid."

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday afternoon, December 1. The Glee Club of the Narberth Public School, composed of seventh and eighth grade pupils, will sing a group of songs. Mr. W. J. Drennan will be the leader.

The speaker will be Mrs. Hope Le Barr Roberts, who will talk on current events.

The Christmas meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday, December 15, in the Community Building. A one-act Christmas play, "Solitaire," will be presented by club members. There will be Christmas music, a tree and a number of surprises.

story of the indictment and trial of one Elsie Andrews, for the murder of her husband, Gaylord Andrews, whom the State contends she has poisoned. Sufficient motive for the crime is proved in the facts that Gaylord Andrews was a ruffian and a drunkard, a wife beater and a poor provider when he was "not himself," which was most of the time. Then, too, he had just struck it rich, and showed his wife a parcel of gold from the strike the very morning of his murder. Discovery of oxalic acid in some cookies she had baked and her husband had eaten just before he died formed the basis of a condemning chain of circumstantial evidence which seemed to point to the success of the ruthless District Attorney's case, and Elsie Andrews' conviction. But that is without reckoning on the ingenious curiosity of Herbert Andrews, the 12-year-old son of Elsie, and the kindly and clever methods of the attorney for the defense, for between these two the tide is made to turn, and how surprisingly into a conviction far different from the anticipation of the District Attorney.

The difficult role of Elsie the accused was ably taken by Kathleen McConnell, whose portrayal of the harassed woman shows her ability to carry the most emotional scenes with a subtlety and restraint which beget sympathetic understanding of her role, rather than the ridicule which might be invited by overacting in the part. The District Attorney, bold, bad and ferocious, was splendidly done by Bernard F. Keenan, a Narberthite, but new to the local stage. His many stirring speeches were admirably and forcefully given, and proof of his realistic portrayal of villainy was evidenced at the final curtain, when cheers and whistling from the anxious audience climaxed his downfall in the story.

William Price, a visitor from the famous Hedgerow Theatre group, showed, in his depiction of the beneficent attorney for the defense, that his several years' stage experience had given him the poise and polish which are such attractive additions to any characterization. Mr. Price has what is known as "stage presence"—he creates a certain atmosphere that furnishes an artistic background for his quiet but intense diction.

R. P. Harper as the sheriff was splendid, both in appearance and characterization, and lent a fine touch of color to the typically Western scene. Art Cooke, as the court clerk, gave his usual top-notch performance, adding a hilarious note of fun to the sombre court room scenes. The judge of the court, by his aristocratic bearing, his dignified assumption of court manner, simply charmed the audience, who held in great respect his honor's gavel and stern, "Order in the Court." J. D. Sutherland played this eminent role, and many asked, "Is he really a judge in outside life?"—a tribute to real acting! The juvenile role of Herbert Andrews was given tremendous significance by the manly acting of young Billy Newman, of Anthwyn Road, Narberth. Naive, with a clear, ringing voice, he spoke his lines with a wide-eyed frankness and freedom from embarrassment which would have been a credit to one far beyond his years.

We regret that we are unable to mention individually each of the large cast of characters whose parts, though small, were important parts of the whole design. One break in the threads—and the entire picture would have been spoiled—but there was no such occurrence, for all down the line impersonations were splendid. Turnkey, court crier, stenographer, attorney's clerk, cowpuncher witnesses, two dignified M. D.'s, a "foine" broguish Irish lady and twelve "good men and true" made up the rest of the cast—and every portrayal was excellent.

The success of the performance was assured only by the splendid co-ordination of all the players, plus the able direction of a very much interested coach. To Faith F. Farmer go the honors of the director's job, and it was certainly efficiently handled. Mr. Ullman, author of the play, assisted with suggestions and criticisms, but to Mrs. Farmer went the responsibility of being "chief of staff"—and the result was certainly gratifying to the entire club and its audience.

Scenerymakers, electrician and costumers turned out very fine jobs. The cell scene in the first act, with its weird lighting effects, its bare, white-washed walls, its barred doors and windows, gained particular comment, and the swanky garbs of the rough-riding cowpunchers earned approbation for the ladies of the wardrobe.

Altogether, it was a well-rounded production for a first night and a premiere—and we say, "long life to the Narberth Players!"
